Meeting At Bowell Settles Range Trouble

Govt. To Build 8 Miles Of Fence In District

The difficulty which appeared to have arisen between farmers of the Howell district over the range and lease matters was apparently amicably settled at a meeting in Howell last Saturday evening.

At this meeting were Mr. Lush, member for Empress in the legislature, and Messrs. Gray, Longman and Hepburn, members of the Tilly Estate Commission.

At a previous meeting Mr. Lush agreed to go to Edmonton to investigate, provided those there concerned paid his expenses. This was agreed to and on his return Mr. Lush arranged the meeting for last Saturday evening.

The main trouble appeared to be the lack of a fence dividing the head tax area from the lease area. This problem was solved in Edmonton by Mr. Lush when he secured the assurance from the government that a fence 8 miles long, in the territory complained of, would be constructed at once by the government.

Rotary Carnival Car Passed Through Here

On Way to The Winner At Rockyford, Alta.

The editor of the Review put quite a surprise when the prize car, won at the Rotary Carnival at Medicine Hat last Saturday, drove up in front of the office. He was just as much disappointed when he found it wasn't up for delivery to him. We were not pleased, however, when our niece stepped out of the car and informed us that L. Lawrence, who clerks for her husband at Rockyford, had drawn the lucky number, and that she had come down to bring the car home.

Mrs. Stone (our niece) expressed herself as greatly delighted and pleased with the courteous treatment and helpful assistance she received from the Rotary officials when taking over the prize. Mrs. G. N. Hudson, of Calgary, an old friend of ours, was accompanied by Mrs. Stone on the trip.

B.C. POLICE GIVE ADVICE TO FARMERS

The police department of Vancouver, B.C., sends out a warning to province farmers who ship turkeys etc. to the Pacific coast city around Christmas. The warning is to be careful about shipping to firms who advertise in papers and send out circulars, offering exceptional prices and other inducements, as many mass farmers get really nothing in return when shipment to these firms. The advice is to ship only to reliable firms.

Baud Concert Sunday Was Poorly Attended

Program Put On Was Of Very High Order

The comparatively small attendance at the band concert in the Little Theatre building last Sunday evening was most disappointing, especially in view of the fact that the band put on such an excellent program.

Those who were present were most agreeably surprised at the very noticeable improvement in the music rendered since the band's last public appearance. Much more difficult pieces were played and all were most successfully rendered.

Rev. H. S. Hammett, president of the organization, complimented the leader and members on the progress being made and on the harmony and cooperation among the musicians. He expressed the opinion that if other organizations in town provided the same interest and harmony, we would have many more successful community enterprises.

Dominion Election Taking Places Monday

Voting in Cliff Hall From 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Polling for the Dominion General election next Monday will be held in Cliff Hall. The poll will open at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. Only those whose names are on the voters list will be allowed to vote. There will be no swearing in of voters at this election.

The officials in charge of the poll here will be P. Baird and J. L. Stone as deputy returning officers and A. J. J. Iammon and J. Sanger as poll clerks.

The candidates in the federal race: G. M. Blacklock, Conservative; Dr. F. W. Gershaw, Liberal; and Mr. Mitchell, C. C. Credit.

First Snow Fall Blanket Province

Light Flurry Here And Dr.
In Temperature

The sudden change in the weather last Tuesday, with a light wind, reminds one of winter is approaching.

After the exceptionally fine summer weather of the past few weeks the change was very unexpected.

The cold north wind brought with it the first flurry of snow which was general throughout the province but there was a much heavier fall in other parts of the province than around here.

Although the weather is not settled and the sun shines brightly the temperature is considerably lower.

The British House of Commons is summoned to meet on Oct. 15th to discuss the Italo-Ethiopian. Fighting is still continuing in Ethiopia.

Local Dramatic Competition Billed For Near Future

Three One-Act Plays Preparing
By Local Talent

Rehearsals for the Dramatic Competition to be presented in the Little Theatre in two or three weeks time are now progressing rapidly. The Gordon Musical Church Players are offering a rollicking comedy entitled "Boasting Bridget." This play proves that a bolder name is the best place for trying out theories and getting surprising results.

The St. Andrew's Church Dramatic Society have selected a delightful drama of the time of Christ. The action passed in a small house in Judea where a reward for sublime faith in the Master is clearly shown.

The offering of the High School students will be a large rapid-fire Revueville car unrolled to keep the crowd both amused and thrilled. This will be a spectacular performance with a cast of 25.

Programs giving details of the competition will be released shortly.

W. King Wins Prize From "True Stories"

For Best Criticism On Stories
In That Magazine

Mr. W. King principal of the school here, is announced in the "True Story" Magazine as being the winner of the first prize in a competition offered by that magazine. Prize were offered to those who could give the best review of who, he or she thought were the best stories in the magazine and why. Sixteen interesting, stories and why and constructive ideas were sent to make the magazine better.

The first prize won by Mr. King was $25.00 in cash.

If Not Bennett, Who?

Next Monday Canadian voters go to the polls to choose their government. The government they select will rule Canada's destiny for the next five years. In the ordinary course events the next general election after this one, will come in 1940. Here is a vital decision for Canada. Especially about this election there can be nothing casual, nothing second rate. We are marching steadily forward out of the world depression. The League of Nations' experts have stated that Canada leads all the nations of the earth out of the depression; but we are not yet completely free of depression's evil influences.

We are on the road. We must go forward. Who will lead us?

Canadian voters have a four way choice.

There is Mr. King. He was Prime Minister of Canada between 1921 and 1930. During his term of office the stock market boomed, people got rich (on paper) over night; but it was also during his term of office that the stock market collapsed, and people who had thought they were rich found suicide the easiest way out. Mr. King asks the voters of Canada to restore him to the premier ship, supported by the same group of politicians who carried his policies between 1921 and 1930. If you wish a reversal to the 1921-1930 policies you will vote for Mr. King and his candidates.

There is Mr. Stevens leader of the Reconstruction party, who beaten man in 1930 was saved from obscurity by Premier Bennett and who appeal to the electors is based upon unrest and dissatisfaction.

There is also Mr. Woodsworth who invokes a utopia which does not exist.

Also in this province there are Social Credit Candidates who have no federal leader and no definite federal policy.

Finally, there is Richard Bedford Bennett. He has brought his country which he loves so dearly, successfully through 5 years of the most desperate, the most dangerous economic depression the world has ever known. Because he has proved himself a man and a leader his opponents accuse him of being a dictator. The mere fact that general election is being held on Monday next is sufficient answer to that charge. Why should a dictator go to the polls for a popular vote. Stalin dictates no such test. Hitler controls by force every German ballot; Mussolini does a permit popular elections. These are Dictators. Bennett is Prime Minister in a democratic government founded upon the British parliamentary system.

Bennett! No man in Canada's history has given more of his blood, his health, his services, his money to his country than Bennett. He stands today here and shoulders above every politician in the country. He is Canada's only real statesman. He offers you a practical, workable reform programme; he stands for Canada first not for party.

King, Stevens, Woodsworth, Bennett.
If not Bennett, who?

Chance Made in the Local School Staff

Miss McWaine Resigns And
Mr. Thacker Engaged

At a meeting of the School Board held last Tuesday evening the resignation of Miss McWaine was accepted with regrets and Mr. Bernard Thacker was engaged to fill the vacancy.

The reason for Miss McWaine's resignation was that she had been offered a position on the Medicine Hat staff at an increased salary.

Miss McWaine will be greatly missed in Redcliff not only in the school but in local musical and social circles. It has been largely due to her musical talents and enthusiasm that Redcliff pupils have made such a splendid showing in the singing contests at the school festival over the past few years. Her willingness to assist in all her undertakings has won for her many friends who will greatly regret her leaving town.

Mock Federal Election In Local High School

Three Candidates Will Be Voted
On In This Contest

A mock federal election is being staged by the High School Literary Society this week. Three candidates are seeking election: Elsie Dimes, Conservative; June Maillard, Liberal; and Norman Lindahl, Social Credit. Deputies are also being elected. The members of the society and candidates failing to vote the required number of votes will forfeit the deposit. A straw vote will be taken in all grades from six to twelve and results compared with the actual returns in this constituency on Oct. 14th. The full complement of clerks and returning officers will be on hand at the poll booths and students will get a very good idea of the manner in which elections are carried on, as well as the proper method of voting.

The Lady's Auxiliary to the United Church of Canada in Legion B.E.S. will hold a sale of work in the L.O.O.F. hall on Nov 6th at 3 o'clock. Come along and see if you are the lucky one to get the prize. Tea will be served. Price 50c each.

Local Legion Buys Imperial Bank Building

Expect To Move into It By
First Of Year

Negotiations have now been completed between the local Legion and the Imperial Bank officials for the purchase of the bank building on the corner of Broadway and 12th street here.

Legion officials have completed arrangements for the purchase of the building and plans are now being made to have the building put in shape for an up-to-date club room and memorial hall, and it is expected very soon will be in readiness to move into by the first of next year.

Presbytery Meeting Here Last Tuesday

Were Entertained by L.A. After Business Meeting

The United Church Presbytery of Medicine Hat held its regular annual fall meeting in Gordon Memorial Church on Tuesday.

On account of changes in the pastorate there were five new ministerial members. Rev. O. Doney, president of the Saskatchewan conference and Superintendent of Missions was present. Rev. D. Binning of Medicine Hat was elected chairman, Rev. H. E. Ellison of Bow Island secretary and Rev. R. R. Hinchey of Brooks treasurer.

Reports received encouraging conditions in the life and work of the church. The Presbytery expressed gratification at the Communion of the Presbytery of Young People's Union in Fifth Avenue Church on Monday night.

The Ladies Aid entertained the members to lunch at 2 p.m. and in the evening provided a banquet at which the members of the Presbytery and of the local official board with their partners were present. Addresses were given by visiting members.

Four policemen and three buncoists were shot and killed this week. The bandits killed two policemen in Sask. on Sunday and while being run down killed two more near Banff last Tuesday. All three bandits were also shot, one killed outright and two others died from wounds.

Adds Zest to the Meal

To Burn Or Not To Burn

There will be few people in Western Canada, whether farmers, business men or wage earners who will quarrel with the policy which resulted in the announcement of the Canada Grain Board's establishment of a minimum price of 87½ cents for No. 1 Northern wheat Feb. 1, 1934.

Regardless of political affiliations or economic beliefs the general public in the west greeted the announcement with approval as soon as it was made, and it is to be hoped, it will be accorded general backing in the east as well.

But the extent to which this policy will ensure to the benefit of Western farmers, who are hard pressed as a result of a prolonged period of drought, followed by a most disappointing situation as a result of wide-spread ravage of the wheat crops by rust, will depend upon the prices spreads which, at the time of writing, are expected to be announced any day.

As harvesting and threshing operations progress, the amount of damage from rust is being daily revealed as a disaster of immense proportions, and while estimates of the extent of the loss sustained by farmers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan vary from day to day, it is quite apparent that the final figures will show a loss of great magnitude.

The rust which invaded large tracts of the best wheat growing areas of the west with such devastating effect, has not only reduced yields of what earlier in the season promised to be abundant crops but it has devastated the grades to an extent comparable with the lowered yields.

At the moment there are thousands of acres of low grade wheat standing in the field awaiting the time when the grain is sufficiently dry to ensure a good harvest because it does not pay to cut it.

Before taking this drastic action to destroy a lot of grain which conceivably may be of some value at a future date, farmers would be well advised to at least await the promised announcement of spreads prices: It is quite possible that the spreads may be set at such figures that even the lowest grade wheat can be threshed and stored on the farm without too serious loss to the grower.

The Federal government has recognized the loss sustained by farmers through drought in the past four years as a national calamity and it is surely reasonable to suppose that the loss from rust this year will be included in the same category and that recognition will be given to the fact when minimum prices for the lower grades are set.

No one can gainsay the statement that the blame for damage by rust cannot be laid at the farmer's door. Rust damage is just as much a national calamity as the drought, and in taking the case, there is every reason why the national purse strings should be loosened to relieve the predicament in which such a large number of Western farmers find themselves with water knocking at the door.

It must be remembered that the grain about to be delivered to the flames has already cost the farmer something in outlay and labor and would cost more if it were cut, threshed and hauled to the elevator.

Unfortunately the present market price is too low to cover all these costs, without taking into consideration any margin of profit for the farmer who raised the grain.

If the crop is destroyed by fire not only does the grower lose what he has already put into it in cash and labor, but it represents a loss to the country at large. It might be well worth the country's while to advance the farmer at least sufficient money to save the grain by way of a federal minimum price, thus salvaging what has already been spent on the crop and perhaps saving what might otherwise have to be expended later in the form of relief.

Such a measure might well be regarded in the light of a partnership between the individual and the nation for the mutual benefit of both.

There is also the question of the effect on the morale of the unfortunate grower. After losing a series of crops from drought the economic necessity of burning a crop which was not very long ago so promising must have a devastating effect on the stoutest heart. If this effect can be averted without serious financial loss to the country, it may be well worth the expenditure.

Flies Prefer Orange Color

Primeval Yellow Is Second Choice

And Curious Thing

It's this way with flies—there's rather an odd craze than a cucumber, if the choice depends on color. Such was the deduction announced at the University of California recently as a result of scientific observation of color preferences of multitudes of flies. A huge chicken-board with eleven-inch squares in various colors was hung up in a dairy barn of the university's college of agriculture. The flies were invited to come and make themselves at home. For three months this went on while Lester J. Barry, graduate student in charge of the experiment, and his aides kept watch. The tabulated results announced by Barry follow: Not less than 10,972 flies parked on the orange square while only 2,667 sought out the blue. 2,300. Many colorful flies went after coral red and pink.

Buried Eloquence

The mayor had just laid the foundation stone of a new wing for the hospital, and the speakers awaited his speech.

"What can I do?" cried the harassed mayor to his wife. "I've laid the stone on top of it."

Would Increase Efficiency

Scientific Investigators Recommend

Five Light Meals A Day

When you get a meal, what is the effect on your work? Scientific investigators have recently investigated, and repeatedly answered that the effect is bad. But their studies have generally been based on the assumption that the meal is about one-third of your daily diet, since you eat three meals a day. Now Howard W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenberg, in a book, "Diet and Efficiency," report that the best schedule is five a day, all comparatively light, and that after a light meal in mid-morning or mid-afternoon your efficiency is increased 10 per cent.

This conclusion refutes the old American tradition, which had its basis in farm life. But it is in accord with the habits of many office-workers, and it corroborates the advertising appeals of several candies and soft drinks.—Business Week.

Safety Campaign

Automobile Fatalities On Roads In British Isles

Had as the slaughter on the roads continues to be, we do not think there is any ground for the gloomy view that the safety campaign is more or less played out. It takes a long time to build up the habit of self-protection amid the dangers of the road, says the London Daily Herald.

The fact that fatalities and injuries are below those of last year is pretty convincing proof that safety habits are gaining ground, and there is no good reason whatever for believing the improvement has ceased. Indeed, the ministry of transport's analysis of accidents by age-groups indicates once again where education and propaganda should be directed with special energy. Only one-ninth of the killed were 15 to 24. One-third were over 35.

One half-a-tragic figure—were under 15. It is clearly the young and the old who are in the greatest danger, and upon them should be concentrated the warnings and instructions of the campaign.

Bomb Shelter De Luxe

City Of Paris Makes Provision For Air Raids

Thirty feet under the ground in the Avenue Foch, one of the most fashionable residential streets in Paris, a model concrete shelter has been constructed for use in the event of air raids. The shelter consists of several rooms equipped with all conveniences, including apparatus for detecting the presence of poison gas outside. It will serve as the model for many more which are to be built by the city of Paris. It is built under a mansion. Its roof is a block of concrete six feet thick. Above this is 10 feet of earth then a one-foot thick block of concrete, and finally another layer of earth. Two stairways lead to the shelter, and at the foot of each is a steel and concrete door weighing a ton. There are special rooms for giving first aid to injured persons, machine rooms for light and ventilation, and a room for first aid. Although it is connected with the city's regular light supply, the shelter is equipped with generators and batteries for providing its own light if necessary.

China Has New Tax

After Next May Those Who Cannot Read Will Be Fined

China has announced that after May 1, 1934, anyone in Nanking being the age of six and seventy who cannot read will be fined. Applied at the ignorance of the people of the capital, the Chinese authorities have issued a primer of 1000 characters and ordered students to teach the ignorant from it or give up hope of graduation. As half the population of the city cannot read, the students will be kept busy until the new law comes into effect. The police will be the official examiners, and will stop anyone they wish who fails to read the primer, will have to pay the equivalent of half a cent on the spot. The penalty is called the Ignorant People's Tax.

Discovery About Artist

Michelangelo Had Hundreds Of Concealed Places In His Paintings

A discovery that hundreds of concealed faces look down from Michelangelo's paintings in the Sistine and Pauline Chapels of the Vatican, has been made by a Rome priest and art critic, Father Giuseppe Parroni. It was in this way, Father Parroni says, that Michelangelo pilfered his enemies and immortalized his friends. Cardinals and some of the great men of the papal court figured among Michelangelo's enemies. Father Parroni mounted a tall scaffold and took minute photographs to complete his discovery.

Sing Of Giant Type Proved Fatal To Italian

A sting by a giant jelly-fish has resulted in the death of Salvatore Canale, an Italian cane farmer near Brisbane. He was bathing at Coorparua Beach when he suddenly cried out loudly for help. His companions rushed out and pulled him ashore. He was given artificial respiration and restorative but he died on his way to the hospital. Tentacle marks were found on his body and it was at first thought that he had been attacked by an octopus. Later, however, it was found that he had been paralysed by a giant "Portuguese Man of War," a type of jelly-fish that is found along the Queensland coast. These jelly-fish often have tentacles up to 12 feet long, and their sting is capable of causing temporary paralysis.

Mr. Carr was notified a parcel of books awaited him at the customs office. On opening the parcel he discovered his two volumes of Stanley's "In Darkest Africa," which he had read during the long Arctic night while the polar party waited to begin the futile dash for the North Pole. They had been discovered among Peary's effects and forwarded by the admiral's daughter, Mrs. Edwin Bradford, of Washington, D.C.

Putting Trees To Sleep

Entered Host For Orchards Results In Better Crop

Sir W. Beach Thomson recently visited in the London Inspector for Information concerning induced dormancy in vegetation. While traveling in northern India one of his correspondents found that the native gardeners had exposed the roots of their trees to the air in the hot, dry season, thus checking their growth, which otherwise would have been excessive. Sir William recalled that in Africa rose bushes are dug up and laid in dark places for considerable periods. Not only does this give the bushes rest, but it is asserted that it strengthens them against certain fungi. The notes on this topic brought prompt response from an authority on the subject, Ronald G. Hutton, Director of the Imperial Bureau of Fruit Production, who wrote to the Inspector a letter in which he said in many parts of the British Empire "the successful establishment of commercial orchards of such temperate fruits as apples and pears is seriously hampered by the difficulty of inducing the trees to rest sufficiently to produce a sizeable crop."

The Imperial Bureau of Fruit Production, which is situated at the East Mailing Research Station, is now collecting information on the general subject of artificial wintering of plants.

Mr. Hutton adds that in Bangalore, the capital of Mysore, in southern India, it is "consciously affirmed" that the success of apple cultivation is entirely due to induced dormancy in which exposure of the roots is practiced. He describes the process as follows: In the months of October-November and April-May, when there is no risk of rain, the soil around the tree is removed to a distance of from two to four feet from the stem until the main lateral roots are exposed. These roots are then covered with water being withheld. The leaves wilt and are removed by hand-picking. One to two inches of soil is put of well-powdered sheep dung or artificial manure and red loam in equal proportions is packed into the excavation above the roots. If there is no rain the trees are subsequently well irrigated about twice a week. Showers appear in a fortnight and the fruit is ripe in five months. Four weeks after the harvest the treatment is repeated for the next crop. The usual life of a tree under this treatment is under twelve years but two crops of apples are obtained every year or fourteen months.

The marvels that have been wrought by cattle breeders in increasing the weight of steers fed for market and in bringing milk cows to high productivity have attracted wide attention. No less marvelous stunts have been won in the vegetable world. The greener growth of today, thanks to modern horticulture and scientific treatment of seed, seed bed, plants, blooms and fruit, can offer at all seasons a bountiful array of delicious foods that far surpass those which his predecessor offered only a generation ago—New York Sun.

An International Memorial

Garden In Victoria Honors Memory Of Japanese Diplomat

In memory of Inao Nitobe, Japanese apostle of goodwill among nations, a select corner of the University of British Columbia forest belt has been transferred into a bit of Japan. Six months ago it was just another patch of British Columbia underbrush, long ago laid desolate by the logger's axe. But today it is the heart of the Island Empire of the East. The memorial, an exact replica of a Japanese garden with a 15-foot carved granite lantern in the center, was erected by the Japanese Canadian Society and a number of Japanese organizations in Vancouver. Inao Nitobe died two years ago in Victoria on his way home from the Pacific International Conference at Banff, where he carried on his work of friendship to the East. To suggest the spirit of Nitobe's mission, Oriental and British Columbia plants and shrubs have been planted side by side in the garden.

Growth Of Fruit Exports

An interesting feature of the past few years in the growth of fruit exports from Empire countries, says the Imperial Economic Committee, even when the world total seems more or less stationary or even declining. In 1933 exports of apples from Canada, Australia, and New Zealand; of citrus fruits from South Africa and Palestine; of grapes from South Africa; of raisins and currants from Australia and South Africa; and of canned fruit from Canada, New Zealand, Australia, and South Africa, were each case substantially above the average of 1927-31.

Boiled donkey skin, powdered deer horn and other ancient Chinese medical remedies have at last found their place in modern medicine. Investigations of the Hong Kong Institute of Medical Research, has shown, clearly the Chinese ancients knew many secrets which the western world has only learned within recent years.

Boiled donkey skin, which has been used throughout China for many years as a tonic, has definite beneficial effects. It improves the calcium and nitrogen absorption of the body. Ancient Chinese medical works reveal 26 parts of six domestic animals were used in Chinese Chinese medicine. The animals included the cow, horse, pig, chicken, sheep and dog. The ancients applied the brain of an animal to the life of a road dog which suggests a connection with the modern Pasteur treatment. Pig's liver was recognized for its medicinal and beryll. In recent years pig's liver has been found to be rich in vitamin A, B, C, D and E.

Many centuries ago newscasters were used in China as a treatment for gonorrhea. This is in line with modern practice. The life and blood of the sheep's eye were used as a remedy for gonorrhea of vision. Recently vitamin A has been isolated by doctors from the iris of the sheep.

The old Chinese medical records are especially rich in recipes compounded from herbs having curative qualities. The use of such plants as dandelions, mulberry, nasturtium, poplar and willow is justified by modern medical men because of their vitamin content.

Legend Of The Carnation

Story Of Italian Lovers Gives Background To Flowers

Carnations originally were called "pinkia," because in olden days these flowers were of that color only. Some people think the name of this flower is derived from the Latin word "carnea," meaning flesh, because the petals are so fleshy. It is more likely that the word is really a changed spelling of "carnation," for the flowers are believed like a cornel, and further, because the blossoms were used in making the crowns and garlands with which the ancients used to deck themselves on festive occasions.

A beautiful old legend explains the name of the carnation. In the graves of an Italian countess, Margherita Rossetti, is said to have been a keepsake when he had to leave her on the eve of her wedding to join in a crusade for the rescue of the Holy Sepulchre from the Saracens.

A year or so later a soldier from the Holy Sepulchre came back in battle, and he handed her the withered carnation, which her lover's blood had changed from white to red.

The flower, according to the legend, had begun to set its seed, and in memory of her beloved, Margherita sowed these seeds, and from the plants that grew up there came a white flower with a red center, such as had never before been seen in a carnation.

Rental Fee Comes High

London Shows Will Loan Thru To The Rentable Class

The demand for diamond thorns for wear at their Majesties' court ball was beyond the capacity of many of the leading London jewellers to supply. According to a friend in the trade, it went all records, and since the delicate workmanship in a good thorn takes about six weeks to complete, it could not be met in time. Even the wives of Ambassadors were among the disappointed. For special occasions, such as the court ball, jewellers are constantly asked to loan thorns from their stock, and regularly do so to well-known clients. The usual fee for the loan is five guineas for the night, plus the cost of special insurance, usually about 15 shillings.

Diabetes Are Dishes

The new meal was full of her own importance. She had worked on the Continent and felt superior to the other servants.

One day she was telling "below stairs" some of her experiences. "How do the foreign dishes compare to English ones?" asked one of her audience. "Oh," replied the maid airily, "they break just the same."

Steel pens for writing date back to the beginning of the nineteenth century.

There are approximately 2,600 daily newspapers in the United States.

ROYAL FAMILY ON VACATION

Queen Wilhelmina and Princess Juliana

After guiding her country safely through its recent financial crisis, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland took a vacation trip to Scotland, where she was sketching a rural scene as her daughter, Princess Juliana, right, looks on.

The Disposal Of Garden Waste

Put All Waste Material Back Into The Soil Again

In all gardens there is a relatively great amount of waste material such as grass and the leaves and stalks of flowers and vegetables, which is generally burnt or removed as garbage and is lost to the garden. Most of this material is organic, that is, largely composed of carbonaceous matter, and is derived from the carbon dioxide in the air, from the water in the soil and the plant food constituents dissolved in this water. When rotted, this material is often called humus, which is a mass of organic material which has largely lost its fibrous structure. This material is valuable to the soil, both for the nitrogen and other plant food which it contains and for the humus matter, the action of the organic matter on the texture of the soil.

The rotting of garden waste is a simple matter and can be carried out by making a compact pile of the waste and occasionally wetting it in order to hasten the rotting. It will be found that in a few months the material is in a fit condition to be spread on the soil and ploughed or dug in.

At this time the coarser materials such as cabbage stalks and woody stems can be separated and burnt. The ashes being distributed over the garden.

A better plan, if manure is available, is to form a compost of the manure and the garden waste. This is done by placing the waste and manure in alternate layers, and making the heap compact by tramping and watering. Composting hastens the rotting of the garden waste.

The most satisfactory material so far discovered for destroying such as the Dominion Entomologist, is sodium fluoride, sold by druggists in the form of a fine white powder. As sodium fluoride is somewhat poisonous, care should be taken to prevent children or domestic pets from gaining access to it.

Dead trees often aid the human race by providing shelters for bees, birds and animals.

THE WORLD'S CHEAPEST AIRCRAFT

M. Henri Mignet, French aviator, is shown demonstrating his home-made "Flying Fish," the cheapest aeroplane in the world, at one of the aerodromes in England. It costs $350, is cheaper than the smallest automobile, costs less to run and is easier to drive, and is almost crashproof. If the 8-hp motor-cycle engine ceased to function at 1,000 feet the pilot would descend with the comfort and safety of a parachute.

See Marvels Of London

Matabele Warrior Chief Makes Comments On World's Greatest City

Chief Matabele, the Matabele warrior who went to England to play in the film "The Charge of the Light Brigade" in the Gaumont-British film "Rhodes," with his two native attendants, spent a few days in seeing the marvels of London. The chieftain's comments, made in the picturesque language of the Matabele and in the presence of his people, form a revealing sidelight on the world's greatest city, as seen for the first time by a South African native noblemen who had never previously been beyond Bulawayo.

"The marvels of the underground railway impressed the chieftain, but his remark was to the point. 'The moving stairs, and the running trains are go beneath the earth thus to be become a mole; besides, there is nothing to see from the train.'

A visit to the Crystal Palace brought forth further comments. "The Crystal Palace, pointed to the statues in the huge building. 'We in Africa give offerings to the spirits of the dead, but for a constitutional and the images of them in stone, that their memory may never fade, and their children's children may see and know the dead.' He noticed the figures with how and quiverful of awe. 'Did the white man, too, give with the bow he had taken?'

"Why, then our very method of warfare originated with the white man?"

The changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace delighted the three African tribesmen. As warriors, they are vastly impressed by the pomp and pageantry of the military display, and the physique and fine bearing of the guardsmen. "I am admiring commander of the old campaigner. The Natural History Museum delighted them; they were amazed that the white men in Britain come bring their children to see the stuffed forms of beasts from South Africa, well-known to themselves.

But Kumalo's greatest thrill came at Crystal Palace, where Imperial Airways authorities received him and his two companions, and showed them the wonders of modern flight. They had, of course, previously seen aeroplanes in flight, but had never seen a machine at close quarters. They sat in the huge four-story machine, and the Chief, who had never seen a machine at close quarters. They sat in the huge four-story machine, and the Chief, who had never seen a machine at close quarters.

Public See Huge Mosaic

Pavement In England Is Unearthed Every Thirty Years

A Roman mosaic pavement, over 1,600 years old and worth nearly $2,000,000 has been opened for public inspection at Woodchester, England, and shortly will be re-buried for 30 years. The pavement, 66 feet square, the work of King George V, Woodchester churchyard. The cost of unearthing it and keeping it open is too great to allow it to be done often. The pavement is guarded day and night and no one except the workmen who uncover it will be allowed to touch it. The last time it was opened uncovered hunters left parts of it bare.

Forbids Ketchup Treasury

Alberta's treasury will be enriched by about $7,000 from candidates having forfeited their $100 deposits in the provincial election, August 23. In the 1930 general elections the yield from this source was $4,500.

By the 7th of September $4,500 had been received, representing forfeits of 57 candidates. An additional $5,500 was expected.

Building Large Pulp Mill

Price Range, B.C., To Have $15,000,000 Plant

Officials of the Mutual Pulp and Paper Mills of Prince Rupert, B.C., from Vancouver, San Francisco and Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., made an announcement that it had been definitely decided, following thorough investigation, to build a 250-ton bleached sulphite pulp mill at Prince Rupert either on the dry dock site or at Seal Cove.

As soon as the necessary details are worked out, construction will start. The cost of the plant will be some $5,000,000 and the permanent payroll is conservatively estimated at two thousand men including those who will be engaged in logging in the woods.

The period of construction, largely in steel and concrete, will be about 18 months.

Logging operations will be commenced well in advance of the completion of construction.

A handsome audience lacks both humming and drumming.

Woman's chief aim seems to be at a target called man.

Drought-Restoring Plants

In This Country

Professor Nicholas Holroyd's "anti-drought" expedition, which went to investigate Gobi desert seeking a pre-ventative for soil blowing and dust storms, has returned with some of the drought-restoring plants, some of which the United States department of agriculture may use to carpet some American plains.

The expedition spent five months gathering these specimens on the edge of the Gobi desert, Borchgrevink said it has accomplished all that is possible in that area and finds it needless to remain longer. He said he has already dispatched dozens of his specimens, to proceed to India for similar work.

The expedition puzzled the simple Mongolians extremely. They could not understand why it should come half way round the world to dig up some Mongolian weeds.

Those "weeds," however, include grasses capable of living through the extreme dryness of temperature and lack of much rainfall, and of clinging to the soil in spite of the high winds.

'Black Men Are Numerous

Always Seen To Have A Witty Answer

President Woodrow Wilson, at a dinner speech in Trenton, N.J., in which he has referred to one of the Negro janitors of Princeton University. "One day early in spring," he said, "a French student came to me and said, 'I have seen the Frenchman said, 'How black and almost these trees look, Pomp, almost as black as me, sah. But spring will come here, and then they'll be almost as great as you, sah.'

Court proceedings afford many instances of the humorous presence of the Negro mind. A negro well known to the presiding judge was in a court in connection on a charge of having struck a relative with a brickbat. After the usual preliminaries the court inquired: "Why did you strike him?"

"Judge," he called me a black rascal."

"Well, you are one, aren't you?"

"Yes, sah, maybe I am. One. But Judge, 'pome some one should call me some one, and wouldn't you hit 'em?"

"But I am not, am I?"

"No, sah, you ain't; but 'pome some one, and wouldn't you hit 'em? of racial you is, what'd you do?"

Keeping Track Of Tools

One System Which Would Be Help To Farmer

In the farm the farmer should be in place for every tool, and every tool in place for the farmer. The tools may be hung against the wall, with numbered painted cards in them. When any particular tool is taken down the number remains as evidence of what tool is gone and where it hangs.

As many men about the farm have a tool to put a piece of cardboard bearing the name over one of the nails. This should work out well in any farm shop and could be put into effect the first stormy day.

Needed Assistance

A farmer gave the new man an alarm clock and said that he was expected to get up at four o'clock each morning. The first morning the alarm clock failed to ring, and the new man was nearly an hour late in rising.

"Why didn't you get up at four o'clock, as I told you?" the farmer asked him.

"The alarm didn't ring," the new man replied.

"It meant to tell you about that," the farmer told him. "Sometimes it gets stuck, and won't ring; but you're just to turn it over and it'll ring all right. Now, if she don't ring by five past four tomorrow morning, give her a shake."

The Kofik bear, first found on Kodiak Island, Alaska, is the largest of all known bears. Many specimens have been found to exceed a weight of 1,200 pounds.

Glass windows are believed to have been first adapted in Italy, next by France, then England.
